Internet of Things: On the Cusp of a Litigation Explosion

In "Internet of Things: On the Cusp of a Litigation Explosion," published by Westlaw Journal Intellectual Property, Jim and Christian outline how connected devices can attract litigation because they have many attributes that allow a variety of legal claims to be asserted against their designers, manufacturers or sellers and how parties to these claims can assess risk related to potential IoT claims in advance.

Click here to read the full article.

Authors

James G. Snell

Partner
JSnell@perkinscoie.com 650.838.4367