

Perkins Coie Named a 2020 Top Workplace by The Washington Post

WASHINGTON, D.C. (June 15, 2020) — Perkins Coie is pleased to announce that it has been named one of the 2020 Top Workplaces in the nation's capital by The Washington Post.

"The coronavirus pandemic has made this a challenging year for our Washington, D.C., attorneys and staff and being recognized as a top workplace by The Washington Post is a tribute to every member of our D.C. office," said Bruce Spiva, Perkins Coie's Washington, D.C., office managing partner. "We're committed to fostering a positive and inclusive culture where all our attorneys and staff can grow and succeed, and it's rewarding to see this acknowledged by our top workplace ranking."

The Washington Post partnered with Energage, an employee and consulting firm, on the Top Workplaces 2020 survey, which assesses a range of measures including pay and benefits and an organization's culture and values.

Perkins Coie is frequently recognized for excellence and innovation in the legal industry and honored for its commitment to fostering an inclusive and diverse culture for all employees. In addition to its recognition by The Washington Post, the firm has been named one of Fortune's Best Companies to Work For® for 18 consecutive years and one of the Best Workplaces in Consulting & Professional Services for four consecutive years. The firm has also been included in Working Mother magazine's Best Law Firms for Women list and has earned the Human Rights Campaign Foundation's top rating of 100 percent in the Corporate Equality Index, a national benchmarking survey on corporate policies and practices related to LGBTQ workplace equality, for 12 years.
