

Allan Low Elected to the American College of Mortgage Attorneys

SAN FRANCISCO (January 27, 2023)—Perkins Coie is pleased to announce that Allan E. Low, a Real Estate & Land Use partner in the firm's San Francisco office, has been elected a 2023 Fellow of the American College of Mortgage Attorneys (ACMA).

Founded in 1974, ACMA comprises close to 500 fellows and actively seeks qualified prospects to participate in their nonprofit which includes seminars, networking opportunities, and additional mortgage law resources. Fellows are accepted through a written nomination process by fellows in good standing. Fellows have distinguished themselves as practitioners in the field of real estate mortgage law through their skills and practice experience, bar association activities, lecturing, authoring articles and program materials, participation in the legislative process, and writing briefs and/or arguing cases that are significant to mortgage transactions.

Allan helps clients finance, develop, build, rent, buy, and sell real estate in an increasingly regulated environment. He has a deep knowledge of the real estate industry as well as the San Francisco community and political landscape. Allan represents financial institutions and project sponsors on financing real estate transactions and construction projects, including loan originations, loan modifications, loan workouts, troubled debt restructuring, forbearance agreements, receiverships and deed-in-lieu transactions. He also represents capital partners and project sponsors on structuring real estate ventures, including the formation of real estate limited liability companies and limited partnerships.

Attorneys in Perkins Coie's Real Estate & Land Use practice work on real estate sales and acquisitions, financings, and construction and development projects, both nationally and internationally. The team also has a wealth of experience with restructurings and workouts and has represented clients on thousands of transactions involving commercial loans secured by real estate. The group's matters have spanned the range of commercial, residential, and industrial properties

Perkins Coie is a leading international law firm that is known for providing high-value, strategic solutions and extraordinary client service on matters vital to our clients' success. With more than 1,200 lawyers in offices across the United States and Asia, we provide a full array of corporate, commercial litigation, intellectual property, and regulatory legal advice to a broad range of clients, including many of the world's most innovative companies and industry leaders as well as public and not-for-profit organizations.
