

James Williams, David Perez, Mallory Webster and Reina Almon-Griffin Mentioned in Law360—Kroger, Whole Foods Get Sales Tax Class Action Tossed

Partners James Williams and David Perez, Counsel Mallory Webster, and Associate Reina Almon-Griffin were mentioned in "Kroger, Whole Foods Get Sales Tax Class Action Tossed," an article in Law360,* regarding a class-action suit filed against the aforementioned grocery companies, which was ultimately thrown out of state court.

Kroger, Whole Foods and other grocery chains got a proposed class action accusing them of charging sales tax on exempted products thrown out of Washington state court, but the judge left room for the dispute to be refiled with the state's tax authority.

Safeway is represented by James F. Williams, David A. Perez, Mallory Gitt Webster and Reina A. Almon-Griffin of Perkins Coie LLP.
