Marc Martin Interviewed by Law360—Supporters Scramble To Save Key Broadband Subsidy

Marc Martin was interviewed by Law360 and quoted in "Supporters Scramble To Save Key Broadband Subsidy," an article highlighting the Affordable Connectivity Program, a $14 billion government fund to subsidize internet service discounts that was established by Congress during the COVID-19 pandemic. The program's funding is running out and congressional lawmakers are looking at ways to maintain the program.
