

Antitrust Suit Could Shake Up Schools' Financial Aid Policies

As schools across the country welcome students back for the 2022-23 academic year, several prestigious universities are grappling with a civil antitrust suit that could have major ramifications for how they allocate and award financial aid.

Following the denial of the defendants' motions to dismiss by Judge Matthew F. Kennelly of the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, the Henry v. Brown University case has made the grade to the next phase.

Read full article on Law360*.

*Subscription-based publication

Authors

Hannah Parman

Associate

HParman@perkinscoie.com 206.359.3509

Mason Ji

Associate

MJi@perkinscoie.com 206.359.6308

Caroline G. Tunca

Counsel

CTunca@perkinscoie.com 312.324.8595

Explore more in

Antitrust & Unfair Competition