

Addressing the Department of Justice's groundbreaking declined prosecution of a biochemical company, the first such declination since the new corporate enforcement policy came into effect earlier this year.

The NSD is the DOJ component responsible for investigating and prosecuting economic sanctions and export control violations, among other national security-related matters.

Read entire article on Law360

Authors

Jamie A. Schafer

Partner

JSchafer@perkinscoie.com 202.661.5863

David Aaron

Senior Counsel

DAaron@perkinscoie.com

Mason Ji

Associate

MJi@perkinscoie.com 206.359.6308

Explore more in

White Collar & Investigations National Security