

Our country has entered a new era, in which disabilities are increasingly viewed as superpowers and informed employers recognize them as the keys to unlocking employee performance. But obstacles remain, especially at the intersection of race, poverty, and disability. Join Andy Imparato, executive director of Disability Rights California, and Janice Ta, senior counsel at Perkins Coie, as they discuss their own disability journeys and provide a look toward the future of disability law in the United States.

Listen to "The Era of Disability as Superpower" on Spreaker.

Find us where you get your podcasts

Contributors

Janice Ta

Partner

JTa@perkinscoie.com 737.256.6125

Explore more in

Labor & Employment