

In addition to ensuring returns for investors, American corporations are tasked with navigating a host of social, political, and economic hot button issues—and polls have reflected some success on this journey. In this episode of Workplace Rules, Senior Counsel Chris Wilkinson and Ani Huang, CEO of the Center On Executive Compensation and senior vice president at the HR Policy Association, discuss that success along with recent polling that forecasts choppy waters ahead. The discussion ranges from how strong corporate values can enhance engagement with customers to how workers inside businesses are affecting the overall landscape. Chris and Ani also delve into what's keeping many in the C-suite up at night as we head into the 2024 national election cycle.

Listen to "Part 1: How Americans' Views of Corporations Are Changing—for Better or Worse" on Spreaker.

Find us where you get your podcasts

Contributors

Christopher Wilkinson

Senior Counsel

CWilkinson@perkinscoie.com 202.661.5890

Explore more in

Labor & Employment

Related insights

Podcast series

Workplace Rules

Hosted by Perkins Coie's Labor & Employment lawyers, Workplace Rules offers engaging discussions with in-house professionals, outside counsel, and leading experts on current labor and employment law topics, including regulatory changes and trends in litigation.

View the series

Podcast

Part 2: How Americans' Views of Corporations Are Changing—for Better or Worse