Nasdaq's "Board Diversity" FAQs: 45 & Samp; Growing

A few weeks ago, I blogged about 5 things you should know about Nasdaq's new board diversity disclosure requirement. There were a number of interpretive questions that immediately came to mind – and Nasdaq's Staff has been great about quickly posting a set of FAQs that it adds to on a regular basis. To access the FAQs, go to this page – and then select "Board Diversity Disclosure" under "Category." You'll then see a long laundry list of interpretations – each with their own unique "Identification Number." There already are 45 interpretations – some that apply only in limited circumstances. We are working on a lengthy article to cover these new rules – and we'll highlight some of the FAQs that have broader applicability in that (as well as in this blog when that article is out).

Explore more in

Corporate Law
Blog series

Public Chatter

Public Chatter provides practical guidance—and the latest developments—to those grappling with public company securities law and corporate governance issues, through content developed from an in-house perspective.

Subscribe?

Visit Public Chatter Resources for Guides, Quick Alerts and Programs

View the blog