

Exploring Business Income Insurance Coverage Under Property Policies Following Recent Regulation and Shelter In Place Orders

What you need to know now about your current coverage and how to protect your insurance coverage for future claims.

In this webinar, we walked through the intricacies of how business income coverage may assist companies with some of their Coronavirus related losses in light of the ever-changing regulations and government orders. California, Illinois, and New York have already implemented state lockdowns with more states expected to follow course over the next week. We will also address what constitutes "direct damage" and "physical loss."

The speakers identified what language your policy needs to contain (or not contain) for coverage to attach and provided practical advice on what records companies should keep now to assist in any future insurance claims.
