

The director of California's Department of Finance has certified that the state's minimum wage will increase from $16 per hour to $16.50 per hour for all employers as of January 1, 2025.

Companies with operations in California should also be aware of specific minimum wages for fast food employees (described here) and healthcare workers (described <a href=here). Additionally, certain cities and counties have their own local wage requirements (described <a href=here). California employers should review their pay policies to ensure compliance with the highest applicable minimum wage rate for their employees.

Authors

Jill L. Ripke

Senior Counsel
JRipke@perkinscoie.com 310.788.3260

Brittany A. Sachs

Counsel BSachs@perkinscoie.com 310.788.3341

Katelyn Sullivan

Counsel KSullivan@perkinscoie.com 310.788.3351

Explore more in

Labor & Employment
Blog series

Wage & Hour Developments

The regulatory landscape, appetite for administrative agency enforcement, and judicial interpretations related to wage-and-hour issues are rapidly evolving. Our blog is a one-stop resource for federal- and state-level updates and analysis on wage-and-hour-related developments affecting employers. Subscribe?

View the blog